PRINTING SHOP YIELDS TICKETS

Thousands Seized in Well-Equipped Shop; Ohio Operations Disrupted.

By Hynds-Moore News Service

ALLIANCE, Feb 4 A statewide lottery organization which is famed for swift payoffs on winning numbers based on the United States treasury's daily balance was thrown into confusion when Cleveland police moved in on its central printing plant here Tuesday at noon

Three Canton men were arrested and tens of thousands of lottery tickets were confiscated in the raid which was conducted by two detectives from each of three Cuyahoga county cities—Cleveland, East Cleveland and Euclid They were accompanied by members of the Alliance police department

The three Canton men were arraigned in Alliance municipal court Tuesday on charges of promoting a lottery, which under the state code carries a maximum penalty of $500 and six months in jail. They pleaded innocent and were released under $2,500 cash bond for appearance at preliminary hearings set next Tuesday at 10 a m

The three were listed by police as William S. Aronofsky, 18, Ervin Kalcevic, 29, and Howard D. Rosenthal.

Lost Purse Starts Hunt

The trail which led to the Alliance printing plant was picked last Friday night when a Cleveland woman lost a purse containing $49 in cash and a large quantity of "New Deal" treasury balance lottery tickets.

When the woman, Mrs. Eleanor Kappeli, 47, of Cleveland, claimed her purse at the police station, she refused to talk, but police released her and then followed her to a car which contained $500 in cash and 4,000 more lottery tickets. They arrested her.

A check of the auto license by police led to the arrest of Howard Galloway of East Cleveland, and confiscation of more tickets. Galloway implicated Percy L. Shepherd, 49, of Euclid, who in turn implicated another Euclid man, George Sarles

Euclid police arrested Sarles and found more tickets for the cash lotteries and also tickets for house and automobile drawings. They also found records and papers including a business reply envelope which bore the name, "The Williams Sales Company, 238 East Main street, Alliance, O"

Sgt. Kopacka and Patrolman Norman Heckman of the Cleveland department joined Detective Lieutenant Edward Polk and Detective Melvin H Burkhardt of East Cleveland and Detectives Walter Steverding and John Zagore of Euclid to pay a visit to the Alliance address

Aged Family Dog Given As Cause Of $3,000 Home Fire

The family dog was blamed today for the $3,000 fire that gutted the Virgil Crabtree home near Crystal Lake Monday night

Fire Chief Owen A Sifritt, unable to find an immediate cause of the fire which started when the family was away, conducted an investigation yesterday After talking with the family and eliminating the usual causes of fire he came up with this story, told by Mrs Crabtree

It appear that old Rover in his doings had been permitted to sleep in the living room near an oil stove When the family went out he was chained to a table to keep him from getting into mischief

Somehow the chain became unfastened Monday night and Rover in his sleep twitched his bedding too close to the stove Rover can't confirm the story because he was found dead from suffocation from smoke on the floor of the adjoining bathroom, chain still fast to his collar.

SEEK MERGER OF RAIL UNIONS

"New Rail Union" Talk Spurs Consolidation of 2 Railroad Brotherhoods.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb 4 — In response to talk of a "new rail union," heads of two railroad brotherhood assert they are doing "everything possible" to bring about a merger of the rival factions.

The statement issued in Chicago last night when T. M. McCormick, a Toledo, O., engineer on the New York Central railroad, declared that "action leading to a new rail union" may be taken.

At their last national conventions, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen approved resolutions calling for a merger. A joint committee was appointed to work out details.

McCormick declared that "if the national officers of the respective unions and the joint conference committee refuse to carry out the mandate of the rank and file in favor of unity it is possible this conference will take action leading to a new rail union."

He was referring to the consolidated committee of enginemen which opened its second national conference in Chicago yesterday. McCormick is chairman of its executive committee.

He told a reporter there were "indications" that officers of the two brotherhoods "are merely paying lip service to unity."

David B. Robertson, head of the firemen, and Alvanley Johnston, grand chief engineer, commented that the consolidated committee was trying to disrupt "sincere efforts of union officers to bring about a merger."

Robertson also asserted that "Johnston and I and the (joint) committee are doing everything possible to merge our organizations," and said "we have no fear of their threat to form a new order or union."

On earlier occasions both Robertson and Johnston have accused leaders of the consolidated committee of "trying to build up a false front" for the purpose of "selling out" to the CIO, and to save jobs for themselves.

Brotherhood sources reported that one of the most difficult problems to be worked out by the joint merger committee was the manner in which the extensive insurance systems of the two brotherhoods were to be consolidated.

The consolidated committee claims to represent 18,000 engineers interested in uniting the two brotherhoods. The B.L.E. represents about 112,000 workers and the firemen's brotherhood about 100,000.

The two brotherhoods, along with the AFL switchmen's union, currently are engaged in a dispute with the nation's carriers which led to a strike call for Feb. 1. A presidential emergency board is conducting hearings on the issues. The rail unions seek a wage increase of 30 per cent and changes in working rules.

CONSIDER TAX CUT DELAY UNTIL JULY 1

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Some senate Republicans are thinking of delaying any tax cut until July 1.

The bill passed overwhelmingly by the house Monday would carry the tax cut back to January 1. It would lop $6,500,000,000 off the amount taxpayers will owe on 1948 earnings.

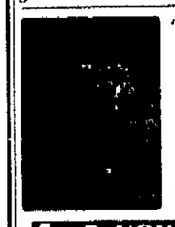

But GOP senators say they must hold the revenue loss to somewhere near $4,500,000,000 to get the Democratic votes necessary to override an expected presidential veto.

Making the tax cut a six-month affair would take $3,250,000,000 off the taxpayers' bills for 1948. But that might not satisfy the Democrats over the long run because they estimate the house measure will cut federal revenues a total of $7,100,000,000 in the 12 full months after July 1.

So the Republicans still are talking also of halving the 10 to 30 per cent rate reductions of the house bill. That would save the treasury about $1,500,000,000 over the course of a year.

All of these estimates, it was explained, depend on how many dollars Americans earn on which to pay taxes.

Unless last minute revisions change their figures, Republican leaders planned to: (A) estimate tax revenues at $47,300,000,000 for the year beginning July 1, (B) promise to cut government spending by $3,000,000,000 and (C) agree to apply at least $2,600,000,000 toward the national debt. That represents about 1 per cent of the present debt.

A KAISER or a FRAZER gives you more miles per gallon!

The best way we know to offset higher gasoline prices is to drive a Kaiser or a Frazer. Their 100% postwar engineering provides economy beyond your fondest expectations! This boon to the thrift-minded is especially astonishing to people who previously owned prewar cars. They report that Kaisers and Frazers are giving them many more miles per gallon than they ever got before! And today that means a saving of not just cents, but dollars!

The reasons for such exceptional mileage are clear-cut. K-F chassis design is new. It takes every advantage of the accelerated technical advances made during the war years. For example, the horsepower-to-weight ratio is notably higher than in prewar design. The same is true of the compression ratio — the highest in any car on the road! And this means the most efficient use of costly fuel!

Vital and important as it is, greater economy is only one of the many advantages of fully postwar design you will find in the Kaiser and the Frazer. Come in and let us give you a demonstration. Discover all the exclusive new features you should not be without in your next car! You'll be glad!

READ WHAT TYPICAL K-F OWNERS SAY ABOUT ECONOMY

"Our new Kaiser has the more-expensive-car performance and styling and the less-expensive-car economy."—From a Hamilton, Ohio, Engineer.

"I just finished a 4,000-mile trip in my Frazer averaging above 20 miles per gallon at between 60 and 70 miles per hour."—From a Laurel, Md., Businessman.

"My Kaiser has performed beautifully in the mountains. On exact test it delivers over 18 miles per gallon on mountain driving."—From a Greensburg, Pa., Manufacturer.

"I now have 13,024 miles on my Frazer. I have the nicest riding car I ever owned and as for economy — well, I get as high as 25 miles to the gallon with the over-drive!"—From an Ida Grove, Ia., Real Estate Man.

"Just returned from a 3,000-mile trip in my Kaiser and believe that for ease of operation, brilliant performance and riding comfort, it has no equal. I get 19 miles per gallon."—From a Hammond, Ind., Businessman.

"On a 4-day, 1212-mile trip around Lake Michigan, we averaged 18¼ miles to the gallon . . . our new Kaiser is economical to operate and performs beautifully."—From a Chicago Office Worker.

"My Frazer is the finest car I could have bought at any price. The easy, comfortable ride — at any speed — is in my opinion the outstanding feature. Economy and performance are unbelievable. I get 19 miles per gallon with speeds up to 70 m.p.h."—From a Brookville, Pa., Insurance Executive.

"Everybody knows the Kaiser is economical. No matter what speed you travel it still does 24 miles per gallon on the highways."—From a Winnipeg, Man., Funeral Director.

"On a recent 2,780-mile trip through Canada I averaged 26.6 miles to the gallon. I have owned and operated many different makes of cars but never until I bought my Frazer have I owned a car that was so economical."—From a Cranston, R. I., Physician.

Roving Reports

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

AN OLD editor, his eyeballs calloused from years of newspaper prose, once told me:

"Son, there are five subjects people always are interested in—an easy way to make money, sex, dogs, birds and weather."

He said a writer who dealt consistently with these topics would never lack readers, and his pockets would always give off the pleasant sound of clinking coins.

Hal Boyle

I wonder if all five at once would quintuple that? Here goes:

A janitor has come to me with an important new discovery in the field of quick wealth, but I hesitate to pass it on until I learn what happened to the $2 he borrowed. He wanted it to test out an exciting theory that racing is linked to astrology, and that you should bet on a horse only when its horoscope is favorable.

No bulletins have come in from the wide wonderland of sex except a hurried note from a friendly cab driver who reports that in the last week he knows of three marriage proposals made in the rear seats of taxis cruising through Central park.

"I figure it's because of the fuel shortage," his memo continues. "It's too cold now at home to propose."

OUR DOG STORY comes from Budapest, where it is a favorite among the people who live under the shadow of the hammer and sickle.

A hungry Austrian dog met a well-fed Hungarian dog and was invited to share the menu at his kennel. But a doubt flickered in the hunger-pinched brain of the Austrian dog and it inquired:

"Before I come, you'll pardon me if I ask whether there isn't some catch? Doesn't your master exact some teeny-weeny uncomfortable demand on you for feeding you so well?"

"Of course not!" said the Hungarian dog, wagging his tail happily. "Everything's wonderful. Absolutely no drawback. Come right on over and have your first square meal. There's only one small thing to remember."

"What's that?" asked the Austrian dog.

"You can't bark," said the Hungarian.

TO GO ON TO ornithology, a friend recently visited his sick grandmother. To amuse her he brought along one of those novelty toy ducks which you put on the edge of a glass of water and it teeters back and forth as if drinking.

He left the toy on the mantle. He returned the next morning to find his grandmother with deep circles under her eyes.

"Take that bird out of here," the only lady cried angrily. "I didn't get a wink of sleep. It kept dunking itself all night, and I couldn't take my eyes off it. And look at it now—it's still doing it. Get that bird out of my sight, or I'll never get well."

THAT BRINGS US to the weather. Well, the Providence (R.I.) Evening Bulletin has found that the 1948 edition of the "Old Farmer's Almanac" has a clean beat to date over the U. S. weather bureau in predicting this winter's storms.

The "Almanac" was printed last November.

Recalling an old journalistic legend that the almanac's weather prophecies are made by an office boy when he isn't busy sweeping up, the Evening Bulletin told of one boy who predicted violent blizzards for a day in August.

Upbraided by an irate editor for this fanciful forecast, the boy said:

"Well, I admit I'm sticking my neck out, but if it does whip up a blizzard in August just think what a prophet I'll be."

THERE YOU ARE—easy money, sex, dogs, birds and the weather.

Perhaps I should mention that the old editor died broke and still a bachelor. He hated dogs, liked birds only in a pie and always said he wanted to go to hell because it was the only place where he could be sure of the climate.

HURT IN SCHOOL BUS

CINCINNATI, Feb. 4—Three of 15 children were injured yesterday when their school bus sideswiped a tractor-trailer at neighboring Colerain. St. Francis hospital physicians said most seriously hurt was eight-year-old Theodore Bachman who suffered a leg fracture.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4—Pedestrian Henry G. Weiker, 65, was killed last night by an automobile as he crossed an intersection.

Planes Fly Radioactive Iodine To Cancer Patients in Hospitals

By PAUL F. ELLIS
Copyright 1948 by United Press

The patient needs that precious cargo, and needs it fast.

The plane is carrying radioactive iodine. It is atomic medicine and may save or prolong the patient's life. He has cancer, but he is lucky.

This patient has cancer of the thyroid and about 15 per cent of all cancer patients can be treated with radioactive iodine. He is in that select group.

The cargo flown from the atomic energy ovens in Tennessee is really a bundle of exploding atoms. Technically, it is known as iodine 131.

Speed Is Essential

Speed in the shipment of radioactive iodine is essential. This particular radioactive substance loses half of its radiation in eight days. After that half of its remaining radiation is lost in the next eight days. This goes on until finally all radiation disappears. Then it becomes another element known as xenon, a gas of the neon family.

Such radioactive substance is being sent to numerous hospitals all over the country. The "best customer" of Oak Ridge is New York's Memorial hospital for cancer and allied diseases. At the time that the cancer takes off from Tennessee it is usually the rule that scientists at Memorial have a patient prepared to receive the atomic medicine.

Previously the Memorial Scientists had informed the Oak Ridge laboratories of the amount desired for a single shipment. Regardless of the amount requested it is usually shipped in about three ounces of distilled water. This water, with the radioactive iodine, is placed in a leaden cylinder about eight inches tall and six inches in diameter, which in turn is placed in a cooler box. All this protects the transportation personnel as well as the [illegible] on the plane, from penetrating radiation.

Some airlines still refuse to carry radioactive substances in the mistaken fear that the radiation may affect delicate instruments used in the operation of a plane. Memorial scientists say the [illegible] ng off a properly packed isotope is no greater than the radiation from the radium dial of a pilot's wristwatch.

Method of Making

Radioactive iodine is made in the atomic ovens by exposing tellurium to the penetrating rays emitted in the uranium ovens. The radioactive iodine throws off radiation, one being known as beta rays and the other gamma rays.

The substance is usually measured by the radiation it throws off rather than by weight. The most common measurement is known as the millicurie. In one such millicurie 37,000,000 atoms of the substance disintegrate each second. It has been established that 100 millicuries disintegrating 3,700,000,000 atoms per second weigh about 8/10th of a microgram. A microgram is one millionth of a gram, and a gram is about 1/30th of an ounce.

Before the atomic bomb project the cost of making radio-active substance in a cyclotron was prohibitive. There is one thyroid cancer case in which the patient spent more than $5,000 for his radioactive medicine. Today, with radioactive iodine coming from the atomic oven the cost in some cases has been reduced to less than $500.

1948 Cadillacs, Out Today, Display Complete Re-Designing

By DAVID J. WILKIE

Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Feb. 4—Cadillac division of General Motors disclosed a completely redesigned and restyled line of passenger automobiles today as it put 1948 models on display for its distributing organization in the Detroit area.

The new models, which follow the current trend of blending fenders into extended body, have rear fenders so narrow they appear almost like vertical fins. Windshield and rear windows are of curved glass. The hood is broader and slopes forward and the overall weight has been increased about 100 pounds.

There have been no major changes in the power plant, which again is the 150 horsepower V-8 engine.

Because a complete retooling job was involved in bringing out the new models a sharp price increase is not unlikely. If the pricing program set by Oldsmobile in producing its entirely redesigned model is followed the increase in price probably will be around nine per cent.

Special showings of the new Cadillacs are planned in various cities in the next few weeks before the new vehicles are delivered to dealers. Cadillac is one of the General Motors divisions hit by the cold weather industrial gas shortage and its production schedule is considerably behind time.

Seats Moved

The center of gravity has been lowered in the new models, seats have been moved even farther away from the axles and all the equipment behind the instrument panel has been enclosed. Standard also are the new low pressure tires.

It long has been a boast of Jack F. Gordon, Cadillac general manager, and Don E. Ahrens, its general sales manager, that Cadillac "builds its cars like watches." This policy did not limit volume last year.

Next—the 1949 Models

Introduction of the new Cadillacs completes the parade of 1948 models. Ford's Lincoln, Mercury and Ford models probably will start the procession of 1949 units, although it will be June before the new Ford models are ready for presentation.

Chrysler has indicated it plans no changes in design until late this year or early 1949. Actually, Chrysler has made a number of alternations in its various cars, with no especial fanfare. Many of the changes were necessary as the new larger, low pressure tires were adapted to all models. Fenders and steering assemblies had to be changed, rims had to be widened and speedometers had to be realigned.

Kaiser-Frazer, aiming at the production this year of more than twice last year's 145,000 units, has no plans for an early shutdown for model changes. It has a new convertible model coming soon, but no major changes are contemplated for the present standard or custom models currently in production.

K-F, as a matter of fact, has made a number of engineering changes without interrupting its assembly lines. Among other things it has installed high compression heads on its power plants and made the changes necessary to utilize the new low pressure tires on all models.

Funeral Rites Held For Abram Ruvinsky

Funeral services for Abram Ruvinsky of Columbus, who conducted the Marion Civic orchestra until it disbanded at the beginning of World War II, were set for 3 p. m. today. The rites were held in the Salder funeral home in Columbus with Rabbi Jerome Folkman officiating. Burial was to be made in a cemetery in New York City. Mr. Ruvinsky was stricken enroute to the Hartman theater in Columbus and was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis hospital. Cause of death was listed as a heart attack. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Paulina Dichter of New York City, two grandsons, Danny and Timmy Dichter, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Boyar of New York City.

HEADS FARM INSTITUTE

UPPER SANDUSKY — Lewis Gottfried Jr. was elected president for the coming years at the final session of the 1948 Upper Sandusky-Salem township community institute at the high school building here. Other officers named were Curtis Traxler, vice president; Mrs. Robert Hehr, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Virgil Will, hostess.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

I FELT a familiar tingling of my nerve ends as my father leaned back in his chair and fitted the fingertips of one hand into those of the other. It was a gesture known to all three of us, and it meant that he was going to tell us something which he considered most important.

"I already have acquainted Lillian with the reasons behind this," he said, indicating the papers in front of him. "She had to know all about it in order to take proper care of her 'guest.' And now I shall give you what information I have."

He paused—he loves a dramatic effect — although I know that Dicky's comment on this foible is true. He always says: "The old boy would turn in his checks if he guessed that we're on to the theatricalism hidden beneath that austere exterior." But I had no time for even a twist of my laugh muscles at the remembrance of my husband's quip, for my father was speaking.

"This is really 'K's' story," he said. "He is responsible for the whole thing. But we haven't time to wait for him to tell it on his return here. However, if he isn't too long gone, I shall wait until he comes to introduce you to our guest. That, really, is his right."

I wondered what his enigmatic smile meant, and stored it away in my memory for future reference.

"As for Georges," he went on, "He really should be here, listening to this, for it concerns him primarily. But Georges, while undisputably one of the bravest of men, is not always—discreet. He also is very suspicious of any unusual happening, and is apt to give it more importance than is its due. For this reason, I have decided to have him know nothing of this matter until later. I know, Margaret, that you will let no hint of what I am going to tell you, go to Georges until I am ready that he should know about it."

I smiled my assurance at him. I knew he did not wish an answer in words. And, while I waited for what he next would say, one facet of my brain fastened on my father's hesitation over the word "suspicious." I had the oddest notion that he had meant to say "susceptible" a word which partly described the royal playboy, but my conjecture flew away as my father went on.

"I have told you," he said, "of the developments in South America. You know that Otto, Queen Olga's renegade son, is planning to get hold of the treasure buried deep beneath the ruined royal Transavanian castle, the hiding place of which is known only to members of the royal family. This treasure Olga is planning to turn over to her loyal son, Pietro, and to Georges, her prospective son-in-law, for the restoration—not of the monarchy—but of a democratic government of the Transavanian people, and their deliverance from the chaos which now is reigning there.

"You also know," he continued, "that Otto and his mistress, Laura, are not able to get out of the country in which they are now residing, and return to Transvania. But Laura has a mysterious friend, a very clever and beautiful woman, of whom little is known. From our sources of information, we know that Otto has given the secret of the treasure's hiding place to his mistress, and that with his consent, she has passed it on to his friend, who will be able to get out of the country later, and proceed to Transvania.

"The fly in their ointment," he finished, "is that the only people able to get at the treasure, are faithful retainers of Olga's entrusted with the secret for years, as their fathers were before them. They will not obey any message unless it comes to them in her handwriting, and sealed with her ring which I now have in custody. No unauthorized person can get near her."

Aside from Politics

RUMBLINGS of southern anger against President Truman for proposing that civil rights should be nationalized are like distant thunder in summertime. A storm is brewing.

The collapse of the coalition that was called the New Deal is coming a little closer. Mr. Truman already has lost part of the urban leftist support loaded to when the New Dealers were riding high with Franklin D. Roosevelt. Helpful Henry Wallace is the lefties' hero now. If Mr Truman were to lose even a segment of the solid south he'd be in the political grease up to his neck. But the south so far never has broken away from the Democratic party, because it has no place to go. It isn't likely to break away now; it will only rumble, to intimidate party leaders who can't win a national election without it.

So much for the politics of civil rights. Aside from politics, all that Mr. Truman has done is to say what all Americans know. A strong foundation of civil rights is the American secret. Therefore, the foundation must be kept intact. It must not become sectional. The south is affronted by proposals to do away with Jim Crow regulations, lynching and disfranchisement of Negroes. The west will be peeved at the proposal to settle claims of Japanese-Americans evacuated during the war. The north won't like the idea of equalizing job opportunities and so on.

An index to the state of civil rights might well be the squawking that follows every proposal to apply them literally and equitable.

Speaking Plainly

He says there are two ways inflation can be checked—by increasing the supply of goods or reducing the demand. There is little hope in the first alternative because production already is at or near its peak. In the matter of reducing demand, there are three possibilities: price controls and rationing, credit restraint, or the boom-bust process working itself out to its inevitable conclusion.

Mr. Thompson says the third course is the one the nation is following. "Labor opposes any effort to reduce its buying power; business and finance have opposed controls such as rationing, priorities and allocations, and efforts to impose credit restrictions; farm groups insist on maintenance of farm prices. Each group.. appears to be willing to have restraints imposed on other groups but not on itself. Too many people appear to be enjoying this inflation too much to want anything done about it."

The nation has been through the deflationary wringer before and it isn't a happy experience for business, labor or the farmer. The way to avoid another such experience is plain. Mr. Thompson is but one of many who have diagnosed the trouble and proposed less drastic cures. But as long as everyone goes on the assumption it is up to "the other fellow" to make the necessary sacrifices the diagnosis is wasted.

The Soft-Answer Man

THE new Russian ambassador in Washington, Alexander Panyushkin, brings a note to Russian diplomacy which hasn't been discernible there since the days of Maxim Litvinov.

Panyushkin is different from the blustering Vishinsky, the taciturn Gromyko, and the acidulous Molotov. Panyushkin is accessible, he talks, he smiles, he answers questions, gives interviews. He has even called on Senator Vandenberg, not exactly a Kremlin favorite.

In an interview given to The Associated Press, Panyushkin spoke in detail on many subjects and while much of what he said boiled down to diplomatic platitudes, the fact that he said it is significant. He said he was particularly concerned about moves to halt Russian purchases in this country.

Was Panyushkin sent to Washington because Soviet policy is taking a new turn? One guess is that the men in the Kremlin, while not given to quoting Scripture, know very well that a soft answer turneth away wrath.

Don't Let 'Em Get Too Big

PRAVDA has rapped the knuckles of Bulgaria's Premier Dimitrov for suggesting that the Balkan nations, together with Poland and Czechoslovakia, form a customs union. Heretofore one of the Communists' elder statesmen and secretary general of the comintern until 1943, Dimitrov has been regarded as a mouthpiece of Russian policy. Hence the rebuke is surprising.

Still unanswered is the question of what the Kremlin plans for its satellite nations to the west. Perhaps it foresees the day when an alliance of eight nations, comprising more than 100,000,000 people, might be too formidable a puppet to manipulate on a string, whereas eight small puppets can readily be made to dance to Moscow's tune.

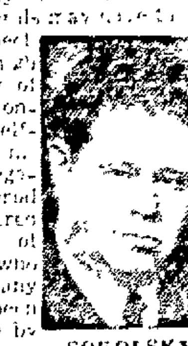

"Divide and conquer" was a policy Hitler followed with eminent success for a time. 'Keep divided and keep conquered" may be the Kremlin's plan—or that explanation will have to do until a better one comes along.

SOKOLSKY

Nor has the ... moral quality of Gandhi's personality, his self-sacrifice and his Tolstoyan regection of material progress altered the outlook of this people who have for so many centuries been held at peace by the force of an external power.

This is no country of one people. Probably nowhere on earth, not even in the United States with its complex of peoples of some 50 nations, but most of them of one major type, do so many different peoples try to live together in one area. Languages are numerous—147 distinct languages grouped under nine different ated families. These linguistic differences are largely due to the different racial and geographic origin of the various peoples who form the 300,000,000 and more millions of individuals who compose what we lightly call India. Tagore once said "India is many countries packed into one geographical receptacle." India remains many countries, each containing many peoples who dislike each other.

The British gave the majority ... [illegible] ... of the Moslem ... [illegible] ... Khan and [illegible] ... [illegible], following Persian, Arab, Afghan and Turkish conquerors.

Problem More Complex

Gandhi served India as Sun Yat-sen served China, as Kemal Pasha served Turkey. But his problem was more complex than theirs, for the varieties of religions, castes and groups had left to India a legacy of hatred not equaled even in the Balkans. His task was to overcome a hatred which had become a political weapon in the hands of native rulers and politicians. Just as Confucius countered the spirit of war by embracing peace as a moral idea, so Gandhi made love the point of his political system. Non-resistance, in his lifetime, won independence from Great Britain, but it did not lessen the hate of Hindu for Moslem, nor of caste for caste. Gandhi succeeded in the least important of his objectives; he ended Great Britain's tenure; but he did not prepare his people to assume responsibility.

It is not difficult in the hindsight of the Twentieth Century to inveigh against Great Britain's accomplishments in India during the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries. The story from Warren Hastings to Stafford Cripps is a long travail. But this can be said: Great Britain kept the peace; she gave the subcontinent more years of peace continuously than it had ever known before. Without destroying traditional forms, the British brought into India western forms and ideas.

British In Education

After all, Gandhi was wholly a product of British education; he studied in British schools; was admitted to the British bar; functioned for years as a British lawyer. His mind was formed in a British environment and there was more in his philosophy of the New Testament than of the ideas and beliefs current in present-day India. He was the flowering of the British training of an Indian personality.

It is unfortunate that at such a time as this, India is left without British guidance and without the moral suasion of Gandhi. India will fall into the hands of politicians, in the Hindu area, in the Mosolem area, in every area. And not the least evil of these will be the ubiquitous Communists who everywhere act as agents of a wicked, ruthless and utterly amoral foreign power who conquers by fomenting dissension as other conquerors have used military force. Already in Kashmir, Soviet Russia is stirring all the political evils of hate as she has stimulated them in North China and Manchuria, in northern Iran, in Afghanistan, in every weak spot on the surface of the earth.

Great Britain's most significant historical contribution to India has been her ability to keep Russia out. Great Britain no longer stands at the gate. And no one stands at the gate. No one at all.

Can't the Senator Just Keep His Shirt On?

North Dakota's Senator Langer is incensed.

Underwear, says he, is overpriced.

One-piece union suits — the short-handled kind — are selling for $2.69.

And that, avers the senator, is haberdashery robbery.

President Truman may be worried about the state of the union But Senator Langer's concern is with the state of the union suit.

That's why, any day now, Senator Langer can be expected to rise to his feet and deliver another speech . . . . "In union, there is strength; in union suits, there is inflation."

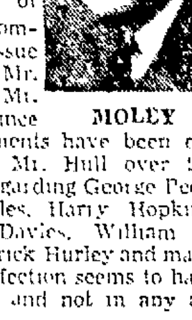

Yes sir, you can't laugh off the HCL a applied to BVDs . . . Not with the current shortage of flour sacks.

Cordell Hull's Memory

By Raymond Moley

SINCE former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in his currently published memoirs, has chosen to open the tomb of the 1933 London Economic Conference and since I am made the central figure in two of Mr. Hull's installments, I am constrained to offer a brief reply.

Summed up, the first of Mr. Hull's long-standing complaints seems to be that President Roosevelt chose to invest me with more direct responsibility than was consistent with a proper status and dignity of the delegation; second, that I received too much publicity in the European press.

MOLEY

With reference to the first of Mr. Hull's complaints, the issue was between Mr. Hull and Mr. Roosevelt. Since similar sentiments have been entertained by Mr. Hull over the years since regarding George Peek, Sumner Welles, Harry Hopkins, Joseph E. Davies, William J. Donovan, Patrick Hurley and many others, the infection seems to have been chronic and not in any act of mine.

In my case the rationale of Mr Roosevelt's habit of dealing directly with a subordinate was rooted in a specific agreement—fully understood and agreed to by Mr Hull and me before we accepted our respective positions in the government. It was an unfortunate administrative arrangement. I knew it and made my doubts clear to the President. It was to be temporary, however, and, weeks before the London affair, I had agreed to enter a publishing enterprise in which I am still happily engaged. The twelve years' unhappiness of Mr Hull over Mr. Roosevelt's habit of direct dealing was rooted in the respective natures of the two men. Mr. Roosevelt was a man of impulse, Mr. Hull a believer in formality.

Mr. Hull's complaint that I received too much attention in Europe is made clear by what Mr. Hull himself says. The other nations at London hoped for three things, he says. First, relief from the war debts owed to the United States; second, currency stabilization; third, tariff reform.

Responsibility for Debts

As Mr. Hull says, I had been vested by the President with responsibility for the debts. He also says that stabilization was a Treasury responsibility which the Delegation had been instructed to leave alone. As a general Presidential assistant, I had authority to negotiate a stabilization agreement and I also had Secretary Woodin's full confidence. I had—and have—documentary proof of this which has never been published.

These two concerns of the conference, therefore, were matters in which I did have specific rights.

The third concern of the foreign nations, described by Mr. Hull, was tariff reform, with which I had no concern. But as Mr. Hull says, Mr. Roosevelt had paralyzed this function by refusing, after Mr. Hull was in London, to ask congress to enact a reciprocal agreement bill.

Thus, since the various nations in London were confronted with a delegation without power, it was not strange that they anticipated my arrival with some hope. I was unable to fulfill this hope, because after I negotiated an agreement which was completely within my written instructions, the President, for no good reason ever revealed, rejected it. That rejection ended the conference. Since that ended my mission, I returned, made my report to the President and left the government to take up my duties as a magazine editor.

Statement Recalled

Mr. Hull now fails to mention that when I left the government he made a public statement that never at any time had he "offered the slightest suggestion to the President or to Mr. Moley relative to any present or future change of the official status of the latter as assistant secretary of state"

A minor point: Mr. Hull complains, further, that I made a radio speech on May 20 expressing some doubts about the Conference and that I did this without his approval. That speech was an exact prediction of the difficulties that later appeared. I was authorized to make that speech by the President who had read and approved it.

And now, as far as I am concerned we can once more seal the tomb and get on with living and more important issues.

Making Change

The Canadian government announces that future Canadian coins will have their inscription changed to conform to the change in the title of King George resulting from the independence of India.

The present inscription is: Georgius VI G Rex F Ind: Imp. (George VI, by the Grace of God King and Emperor of India). The new wording will be: Georgius VI Dei Gratia Rex (George VI, King by the Grace of God).

Daily Bible Thought

It is the spiritual powers that raise men above the status of beasts; a philosophy of materialism will fail ever materially. It always has—Luke 12:23: "The life is more than meat, and the body than raiment."

Ready To Hatch

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, Feb. 4, 1938.

Adjournment of congress was forecast for May as members were anxiously watching primary election dates approach. Listed as probable legislation, in addition to appropriation bills, were government reorganization, naval expansion, tax revision, the farm bill and possibly regional planning and bank holding company bills.

Rev. James H. Jones of Jamestown, N. Y. left for Cleveland, where he planned to visit for a short time before returning home. He had been the guest of his brother, Earl Jones of Lee street and his sisters, Mrs. Frank Bowen of Bennett street and Mrs. Jesse Thomas of Bellefontaine avenue.

City Engineer T. S. Cathers, Herbert Krebs and Walter Johnson attended a meeting of the Marion District Society of Professional Engineers held in the courthouse at Marysville. Harry W. Crist, Delaware attorney, was guest speaker and gave a talk on "Russia."

A tea at the home of the president, Miss Maud Gorham on South Main street, opened the season for members of the Marion Garden club.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley O Neiderhauser of near Marion.

The Agosta High basketball team scored a 37-27 win over Martel in a non-league game on the Agosta court. On the Agosta team were Tucker, Miller, Porter, Schmidt, Crum, Mosure, McMaster and Withrow; Martel players were Bailey, Bedwell, Atterholt, Mumaw, Hesson, Ward and Duffy.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Feb. 4, 1928.

A survey showed the market value of farm land in Marion county was increasing, estimates placing it at 25 per cent above a year ago. A list of large tracts sold recently gave prices ranging from $125 to $151 an acre.

Oscar Gast addressed the Davids Street Community club on the subject, "Washington and Lincoln."

Dog Warden Dale Rhoads set a new high record when he imprisoned 11 dogs in the county pound during the week.

The city health department report showed the death rate from tuberculosis decreasing in the city with only 17 death in 1927, five less than the preceding year.

Miss Dorothy Strawser of North Seffner avenue went to Youngstown to accept a position teaching in the public schools there. She formerly taught at the Oak Street building here.

A Vandenberg Compromise?

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

THE first crisis in the struggle for the European recovery program has begun already, even before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has wound up its hearings. Senator Arthur H Vandenberg has informally opened the key question of the amount of ERP expenditure to be authorized, in talks with State Department representatives over the weekend. To be crude about it, what is wanted is some artful dodge or other, which will conciliate the ERP opposition, yet provide the funds needed for rebuilding war-torn Europe.

The budget bureau provided the argument for just such a dodge, by noting that difficulties of contract-placement, voucher-clearance, and the like, would hold ERP expenditures to $4.5 billions up to July 1, 1949. This is of course far below the $6.8 billion authorization asked by the Administration for this period.

How these two figures are reconciled, by elaborate and quite convincing technical arguments, is beside the point. The point is that the budget was the real source of a plan by which the Senate Foreign Relations committee would cut the $6.8 billion authorization for ERP's first fifteen months, probably lopping off about $1 billion. Under this plan, the committee would note that the cut was made on a practical estimate of the rate of efficient spending, and not from any desire to limit ERP's scope of effectiveness. In fact, the committee would re-assert faith in a full-scale ERP. It would strongly endorse ERP's objectives, and it will indicate support for larger spending than now planned in the program's second year, when ERP would have hit its stride. At the same time, Secretary Marshall would accept the change, and maintain the facade of American unity.

Has Some Advantages

The scheme has obvious practical advantages. In the senate at least, it would cut the ground out from under the opposition. Senator William F. Knowland of California, for example, is a member of the drafting sub-committee of the junta of twenty opposition Republicans organized at the behest, but not under the leadership of Senator Robert A. Taft. Knowland has been in touch with Vandenberg. It is believed that he would support such a device, and could bring enough other members of the junta with him to leave the Wayland Brookses howling in a self-created wilderness.

The device now under consideration would, in effect, also defer the final decision on ERP until after the election, when the Congress and the White House will no longer be divided by party. And yet this would be done without really restricting the rate of ERP spending in the interval. For the committee would endorse full scale ERP effort. If, by some astonishing chance, the ERP administrator found he could spend faster than the Senate Foreign Relations committee foresaw, he would have full moral justification to do so, and to ask the post-election Congress for a deficiency appropriation. Thus the next congress would finally decide ERP's fate.

In point of fact, Secretary Marshall and his aides seem to have had something of this sort in mind from the beginning, as a sort of last-ditch remedy in case of bad trouble. Whatever the amount finally provided, the money can at least be made to cover a full-scale effort until after the election. Then a new request for funds can be presented to the new session. There are reasons to suspect that representatives of foreign governments, dependent upon and worrying about ERP have been re-assured with this thought.

Present Difficulty

The trouble in the present case lies in transforming what was planned as a last-ditch remedy into a concession at the beginning of the struggle. The political repercussions in Europe would certainly be bad and might be catastrophic. Moreover, the House is far more hostile to ERP than is the Senate. Whatever concessions are made in the Senate, will be multiplied three or four fold in the House. Therefore, the State Department is strongly inclined to stand on its original request of $6.8 billion.

The trouble with this inclination of the state department is perfectly obvious. Secretary Marshall and his staff can stand on their original request as much as they choose. But if Senator Vandenberg does not stand with them, the Senate Foreign Relations committee will cut the $6.8 billion.

Senator Vandenberg's management of ERP to date has been one of the most remarkable displays of tactical good sense, political wisdom and disinterested forbearance seen in Congress in our time. He must deal realistically, however, with the results of the Administration's failure to create any true sense of urgency in Congress or the country. So long as this sense of urgency is lacking, the adoption of some such device as it outlined above is the best outcome. The question remains whether the Administration will now awaken this sense of urgency by disclosing the grim political and strategic facts which were the real motives for ERP in the first instance.

A legislator proposes a law to arrest autoists for driving too slowly. This being the screwball age that it unquestionably is, we suggest a statute providing a life sentence for the driver who makes a street crossing carefully, and the chair for the fellow who has never run over anybody in his life.

Time's Dirty Work

By TRUMAN TWILL

Commenting further on the care of sick automobiles, the only subject on which the writer has the feeling of expertness at present, there is a comparison to be made with the care of the human body.

With the body, as with an automobile, it is so much what is done to it—aside from accidents that may occur in the course of daily use—as what happens from natural causes.

The sick automobile under discussion here has been extended to the utmost in its years of use—eight, to be exact. This can be proved by the fact it still is wearing its original tires and they're not worn out. But what time is doing to it—and millions like it—is pathetic, as it is to millions of human beings who have had the best of care.

All that's necessary to dramatize time's toll is some unusual circumstance, such as cold weather, or perhaps the sudden necessity for performing an unusual task.

The latest call for hospitalization, the climax of a series of emergency treatments, occurred in the course of a gallop of 25 miles. It was comparable to what happens to a 40-year-old man during a sprint to catch a bus. The car sustained a near-mortal conniption ... and water and had to be carried home ... door, so to speak. Five more dollars please.

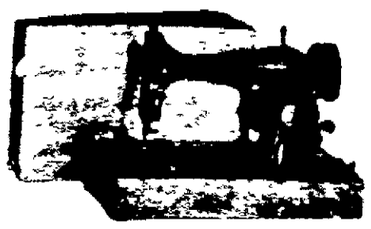

Clinical examination revealed a whole batch of the infirmities of old age, ... stoppage of circulation of water. This ... back-pressure until something had to give and something did—the radiator. That's the way it goes. Tragedy strikes at the weakest point, then the next weakest—and so on.

The folly in the boast of many aged ... that they are as good as they ever were ... they look just the same as they always did ... plain to hide. They too have their weak ... getting weaker as oxidation and corrosion do their dirty work. Better take a look at the ticker, Doc.

They may have given themselves the best care, been considerate of themselves and ... they're capable of running on forever, like ... crook. But let them sprint for a bus, pick up a heavy object, expose themselves to the ... bad weather—and bang! Fifty dollars. ...

In the old days a public advertisement ... that would have brought a dozen auto salesmen on the run. There's no danger of that, the way things are now. There's not even any danger of grabbing the salesability of Old Faithful, as desirable a piece of automotive antiquity as anyone could expect at its age. It just happens that automobiles lose something to the years ... people, which is the reason buyers of the services of old cars and old employes must go into the market with their eyes and their pocketbooks open. The trips to the hospital grow more frequent with age. Caveat emptor.

Danger of Appendicitis Has Lessened

Where medicine is concerned not only the doctor but the general public as well has a role to play in the saving of lives. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the great decrease in deaths from acute appendicitis during the past 25 years. Much of this decrease must be chalked up to the credit of plain Joe Doakes, who has taken the time and trouble to listen to the warnings of the profession on this score. Thus, today most people know the symptoms of appendicitis so well that it is not uncommon for the family to make a diagnosis even before the doctor arrives.

Appendicitis is not as a rule nowadays, a dangerous disease when recognized early and operated promptly by a competent doctor, and it is the awareness on the part of the public that has saved many lives.

The symptoms of acute appendicitis consist of pain in the abdomen, which usually is limited to the right lower part, also, there is stiffness or rigidity of the muscles over the appendix, together with tenderness. There may be an increase in the number of white cells in the blood, some fever, sickness at the stomach, some vomiting, and constipation and even diarrhea.

As I said before, appendicitis is rarely dangerous when the inflamed appendix is removed by operation before it ruptures to scatter its infected contents over the lining membrane of the abdomen. How well this lesson has been learned is shown by a study of a large number of cases, which shows that ten to twenty years ago fully one-fourth of the patients with acute appendicitis already had a ruptured appendix when admitted to the hospital for operation.

Today—and for the past five or six years—only one-twentieth develop this serious condition. And recently, of course even many of these have been saved through the use of penicillin and the sulfa drugs to combat the peritonitis, which develops when the appendix ruptures.

Another important factor in reducing deaths from appendicitis is the better understanding we have today of the care of patients following operation. This includes the withholding of food for a period of time varying from twelve to twenty-four hours following operation, and making sure that the patient gets plenty of fluids. The giving of fluids is particularly important when peritonitis has developed. Salt and sugar solutions are given by injection into a vein or under the skin.

It has also been found that when there is distention of the abdomen the giving of oxygen for five or ten minutes out of each hour is beneficial.

It is also known that the proteins in the blood may be reduced following operations. These proteins can be replaced by injection of whole blood into a vein as well as by using what are known as protein hydrolysates.

Should an abscess form following an appendicitis operation, surgical drainage should be carried out as soon as advisable. This is also important in assuring prompt recovery of the patient.

Everyone should know the symptoms of appendicitis and should not delay in obtaining prompt medical attention if an attack occurs.

SAMOAN BRIDE. American fashions have caught on as far away as the South Pacific, so this Samoan bride wears a wedding gown which looks like many seen in swank U. S. shops. There is, however, one deviation from the customary apparel worn by girls going to the altar: the bride pictured here does not wear shoes. She and the groom walked through the whole ceremony barefooted. U. S. Navy photo.

PITTSBURGH POLICE FIND AMNESIA VICTIM

By The Associated Press

Her handkerchief bore the large initial "N." Inside her hat was perforated "M. O'Neill." About 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing about 130 pounds, the woman wore a black dress, black imitation fur coat, black suede shoes, a black veil and a gold wedding band.

Blind Woman Can Not Testify Against Husband

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Feb. 4—Blind Mrs. Clara Lucas can not testify at the trial of her husband, charged with shooting with intent to kill.

Judge Ralph Sugrue so ruled yesterday in the trial of Forrest Lucas, 47. His defense argued Mrs. Lucas was not in fit condition to testify. She was blinded and crippled by a shotgun blast fired through a window of their home, Dec. 2.

Lucas denied the shooting when arrested two days later at Bucyrus.

Karl R. Babb, chief of the state division of aid for the aged, said about one-third of all recipients in Ohio get $45 or more. The legislature fixed the maximum monthly amount at $50.

Most Ohio recipients get more than the $42 average since the total state case-load includes thousands involving small grants. In small cases the state supplements other forms of public aid and personal income.

The federal government matches state funds on roughly a 50-50 basis up to $45. The state pays all additional amounts to a maximum of $50 a month., Babb estimated the state pays about $190,000 a month to boost the average.

The first February checks went into the mails today, sent alphabetically by counties. The last February payments will be made around Feb. 28.

The average February payment represents an 85 per cent jump over August, 1939, the month before the war broke out in Europe. Babb said U. S. department of labor records show the cost of living has jumped about 67 per cent since then.

Present record payments of benefits for the aged reflect the high cost of living rather than increases in the number of recipients. The number of aged getting benefits reached a peak 139,567 in January, 1942.

EDITOR ON PROGRAM AT ROTARY PARTY

Rotary-Anns were guests at a ladies' night party of the Rotary club Tuesday in the Harding hotel ballroom. Following the dinner Miss Virginia Grover and Edgar Barnhart entertained with duo piano selections, and Felix Mendelsohn, Jr., member of the editorial staff of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, talked on "Writing for Money."

Wilson B. Tway, co-chairman for the event with Edgar Barnhart, introduced the speaker. Mr. Mendelsohn has served the journalistic world in the capacities of writer, speaker and advertising man. He traveled in the Scandinavian countries, served three years in the Army, and returned to work for a time on the Chicago Sun as rewrite man for the foreign news section.

"Writing is largely luck," Mr. Mendelsohn stated, and went on to prove his point by illustrations from the lives of Booth Tarkington, Jack London, William Frend de Morgan, and John Buchan. Booth Tarkington had 41 rejections between his first and second acceptances.

The speaker cited Joseph Conrad as the perfect example of a writer and luck. Mr. Conrad labored for 20 years trying to write a novel or story the publishers would accept. He was handicapped by not speaking English but learned not only English but French. Mr. Conrad got the inspiration for his first seller from "sailing the seven seas" and his first novel was entitled very appropriately, "Chance," although he had written several novels before this which critics consider much better.

The long tables in the ballroom, at which approximately 160 Rotarians and guests were seated, were decorated with greenery and white candles tied with red ribbon. Miss Grover and Mr. Barnhart played a medley of songs consisting of "Linger Awhile", "April Showers", "My Heart Stood Still", "Moonlight and Roses", "Louise", "Lover Come Back To Me", "The Sheik of Arabia", "Jealous" and "The Wabash Blues".

Frank Foster, president of the Rotary club, presided for the dinner program. Mr. Foster introduced the following new Rotarians and their Rotary-Anns: Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gerard, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gracely, Mr. and Mrs. Perle Lockwood, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Mouser, Mr. and Mrs. George Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Oval Wantland, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Roby, and Jim Mautz.

The following guests were introduced: Miss Virginia Grover, Miss Lucile Foreman, teacher of journalism at Harding; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, Lions club; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Carhart, Kiwanis club; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Myers, Y's Men's club; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Vaughn, Sylvia Frew, Mrs. Fred Haybeck, John Webster, Mrs. Albert Mautz, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Schneider, and Mrs. E. E. Holt.

LOTTERY

noon armed with an Alliance search warrant and accompanied by Alliance officers. They found Katrive and Rosenthal in the basement operating a large modern press in printing lottery tickets.

Four Girls Employed

On the third floor the officers found Aranofsky supervising work in what the police called the "distributing room." Four girls found employed in the plant were released after their names and addresses were recorded.

In the distributing room, the officers found an estimated 100,000 lottery tickets in all stages of preparation for shipment—by express. The tickets were packed in cartons labeled "Alvers Corn Flakes, Seattle, U.S.A." but none were addressed.

However, the officers found numerous records including a shipping list which indicated the tickets were for shipment to all parts of Ohio with heaviest shipments scheduled for Canton, Cleveland, Cuyahoga Falls, Cincinnati and Mansfield.

Sgt. Kopacka said he had been informed the plant here had been in operation six years under the name of the Williams Sales Co. Captured Cleveland records had indicated the ring had been in operation 20 years.

Company Not Listed

"The Williams Sales Co." is not listed in either the Alliance city directory or the telephone book. The only firms listed at that address are the City Loan and Savings Co. which occupies the first floor of the building, and the J. L. Jarman Printing Co. which operates a legitimate printing business on the second floor.

The lottery ring's plant, which was equipped with the finest of modern printing and allied machinery, was estimated by police to be worth more than $50,000.

Sgt. Kopacka said the impact of the Alliance raid will be felt in gambling centers throughout Ohio, but he said no evidence has yet been found that the ring conducted any interstate operations. Most of the tickets were labeled "void outside of Ohio."

He said this was the first break Cleveland police had had in their efforts to break the ring which they reported, sold more than $10,000 worth of tickets each week, in the Cleveland area.

The officers confiscated large quantities of the tickets and records as evidence, and planned further investigation of addresses found in the plant. Names and addresses will be forwarded to interested police departments throughout the state.

Head of Pressmen's Union Fined $10,000

By The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 4 — George L. Berry, president of the International Pressmen's Union (AFL), was convicted in federal court on charges of income tax evasion and fined $10,000.

In addition, Federal Judge Elmer D. Davies yesterday gave the 65-year-old labor leader and former U. S. senator from Tennessee, a suspended sentence of a year and a day in prison.

Berry entered a plea of nolo contendere (no defense) to charges that he had evaded $2,587.25 in federal income taxes for 1939.

Snow Storm Holds Up State Bar Examiners

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4—Snow held up the works a little for the state bar examinations today.

Two Dayton members of the examination committee, Albert Scharer and Nicholas Nolan, telephoned the supreme court they had made the 25 miles to Springfield and were stopped by the heavy fall.

They added that they "believed" they could finish the trip today.

The examinations went on without them.

ALLOWANCE HIKE FOR SCHOOL VETS IN SIGHT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—A $10 to $30 monthly boost in living allowances is in prospect for approximately 2,000,000 veterans attending school.

Congressional action on a bill providing the increases was completed yesterday by the house. Only President Truman's signature is needed to make them effective April 1.

The house also passed senate-approved legislation to let ex-GIs draw more pay for on-the-job training. But it has to go to a senate-house conference committee to thresh out differences.

The bill raising government subsistence allowances for student veterans cleared the house on a 370-6 vote. It provides:

▶A $75 monthly payment for unmarried veterans—an increase of $10.

▶A $105-a-month allowance for a veteran with one dependent—a veteran and his wife, for example, a veteran with two or more dependents would get $120. The allowance for veterans with one or more dependents is now $90 monthly.

Rep. Rogers (R-Mass), chairman of the house veterans committee, estimated the increased benefits will cost the government about $217,000,000 a year.

The other bill, passed 371 to 5, hikes the amount a veteran taking on-the-job training may receive from his employer while getting a government allowance. It sets these ceilings for combined allowances and pay:

1.—For single men, $250 a month; 2—married veterans with one dependent, $325; and those with two or more $350.

Present ceilings are $175 for single veterans and $200 for married ones. The current subsistence allowances of $65 and $90 monthly for single and married veterans, respectively, would not be changed for on-the-job training.

7 Men Arrested On Gambling Charge

Police staged a raid at 7:30 last night at Paul "Andy" Anderson's Smoke House at 432 West Center street, and arrested seven men on a charge of unlawful gambling. Police said the men were playing poker.

The men arrested were: Robert F. Schweinfurth of 808 Uncapher avenue, Joseph T. Wiles of 464 West Center street, Tony Bartis of 464 West Center street and Robert H. Ferrell of 484 West Center street, Borden Watsen of 559 Blaine avenue, Bruce Grove of 416 Davids street.

Anderson, owner of the Smoke House, was arrested on an affidavit filed Jan. 29 by a customer who claimed to have lost money gambling at the Smoke House, police said.

The six men arrested were released on $25 bond each and Anderson was released on $50 bond.

Attorney Paul Simpson, retained to represent the arrested men, entered a plea of not guilty in municipal court at 10 a. m. today.

Columbus Lady Loses 24 Lbs. and 8 Inches at Waistline

"I am 29 years of age," writes Mrs. G. R. Thomas, 331 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, "and before taking Rennel Concentrate was entirely too fat for my age. I have lost 24 lbs. with this wonderful reducer and my waistline went from 34 to 26. Everyone that knew me when I was heavy can't get over how I look now. I feel that Rennel has made a 100% improvement."

Hundreds of others have obtained similar relief from the social and physical discomfort of being overweight. Rennel is the original grapefruit juice recipe for taking off ugly fat. It's simple. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Rennel. Pour the contents into a pint bottle—add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves—if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles; just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while taking Rennel—no starvation diet—no printed diet list to buy—no vitamins to fortify you against weakness while going hungry, for you WON'T be hungry. Don't be switched to another product. Insist on and obtain genuine Rennel.

PENNSY TO SWITCH TO DIESEL ENGINES

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4—All major east-west passenger trains on the Pennsylvania railroad will be powered by diesel-electric locomotives within four months bringing a virtual end to the company's era of steam engines.

And by August of this year, President M. W. Clement told stockholders in his annual report, there will be 51 diesel-electrics to pull important freight trains between Harrisburg, Pa., Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Detroit.

Clement summed up as "disappointing" his company's 1947 financial results which brought a net income of $7,285,125.

He blamed the lag between advancing costs and rate increases for relatively low return on operations.

NEWSPAPERS TO FIGHT FCC RULE

Contend Commission Exceeded Authority in Rejecting Radio Applications.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — Two Ohio newspapers contended today the Federal Communications Commission exceeded its authority in rejecting their applications for radio stations. They asked for reconsideration.

The applicants are Mansfield Journal Co. and Lorain Journal Co., owned by Isadore Horvitz and S. A. Horvitz. They objected specifically to a tentative commission finding that if these papers obtained radio licenses in their respective communities, "competition in the dissemination of news and information would be suppressed, and pressure would be exerted on advertisers to enter into exclusive advertising contracts."

Asserting that such a finding is not supported by the evidence taken in public hearings, and that it is "damaging to the good reputation of the applicants," the two newspapers added:

"Findings of the commission with regard to matters outside the scope of its jurisdiction are void and without effect. It therefore follows that the conclusions are illegal in their inception and improper in their utterance.

Asks New Decision

"Justice and fairness dictate the withdrawal of the proposed decision in this proceeding and the issuance of an amended proposed decision more accurately reflecting the evidence in the case."

The proceedings at issue involve these applications:

The Lorain Journal, for a standard station at Lorain.

By Mansfield News-Journal, for both standard and FM outlets at Mansfield.

By Laurence W. Harry, Fostoria, O., attorney, for a standard station at Fostoria asking the same broadcasting frequency sought by the Mansfield News-Journal.

By Richland, Inc., operating standard station WMAN at Mansfield, for a new Mansfield FM station.

By Unity Corporation, Inc., for an FM outlet in Mansfield.

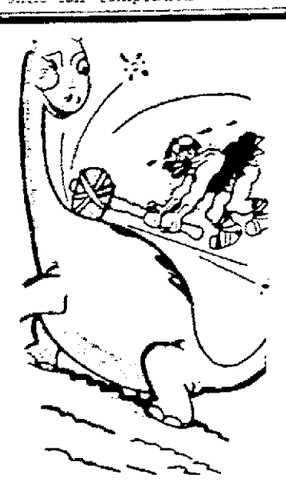

The commission on January 10 announced it proposed to grant the Richland, Inc., application, hold the Unity proposal for further consideration, and reject all the others.

Harry Also Appeals

Harry was turned down because the commission said it appeared that he intended to limit the use of his proposed station for discussions of "controversial issues." Harry has also appealed for reconsideration, contending his testimony was misunderstood, and that it was his intention to follow all rules of the commission in his operations.

FCC said it proposed to reject the Lorain Journal and Mansfield News-Journal applications because of testimony by Mansfield residents that the Mansfield Journal had refused to accept advertising by radio advertisers, had "consistently fought the only other medium of mass communication in the city, station WMAN," had refused to carry that station's radio log, and "has used its position as the only newspaper in Mansfield to keep legitimate news about the station from residents of the area."

The commission said "these practices not only reveal a desire to stifle fair competition but indicate a lack of concern for the listening public in Mansfield

Naming of Nye As Arms Inquiry Head Called Major Error

This was a blunder ... proportions, the respon... for which was Senator ... himself an isolationist in numerous respects. Ordinarily, when a special committee was created for any purpose, especially an investigating committee, a member of the majority party in this epoch the Democratic party—rather than a member of the minority party, would be made chairman. Pittman, though chairman of the foreign relations committee, was preoccupied in other ways, and decided to let the appointment go to Nye. The vice president would have accepted Pittman's recommendation of another chairman, had he chosen to make one.

HAD I DREAMED that an isolationist Republican would be appointed I promptly would have opposed it, but I expected that a member of the majority party would be named under the usual practice and that he would keep the investigation within legitimate and reasonable bounds and not make it a great propaganda movement.

The appointment of Nye was a fatal mistake because the committee, under his chairmanship, proceeded to enlarge the scope of its inquiry into an attempt to prove that the United States had been drawn into the First World war by American bankers and munitions makers. It ignored or contested the broad reasons for our entry into that war, namely, the unlawful sinking of American ships and the destruction of American lives by German submarines, and the danger to the United States of a nation with principles such as Germany's winning the war. We had had to invoke the principle of self-defense.

GERALD P. NYE
"Isolationist of the deepest dye"

Therefore the majority of the committee, in effect, dug the ground out from under those of us who had the international viewpoint and who argued that, if the peace of the world were to be maintained, the United States had to take its share in the effort. Their view was that, if the sale of munitions and the granting of loans to belligerents could be prevented, the United States automatically could avoid war and need not cooperate with other nations toward that end. The rising dangers in Europe and Asia were to them merely an impelling reason to withdraw within our own shores as opposed to doing anything to help other nations resolve these dangers.

BY IMPUGNING the motives and honesty of President Wilson in the First World War, by etching a sordid caricature of our former associate, Britain and France, and by whitewashing the Kaiser's Germany, the committee gave the American people a wholly erroneous view as to the reasons why we had gone to war in 1917. The committee made undoubtedly useful disclosure concerning the traffic in arms, but its effect was to throw the country into deepest isolationism at the very moment when our influence was so vitally needed to help ward off the approaching threats of war abroad.

The committee found the country eager for publicity against the big bankers and munitions makers. With its appetite whetted by the very publicity it received, the committee sought for more. Its chief investigator, Stephen Raushenbush, in a large sense constituted the committee and generally directed its activities. He was eager to get the committee into the headlines and was very careless about the effect his publicity, which often consisted of mere rumors and half-truths, would have on other governments, to say nothing of our own people.

Moreover, the senators on the committee, as so often occurs in such situations, were entirely too disposed to permit their chief investigator to have his own way. The committee was well-staffed, including capable men, some of whom had made a kind of hobby of attacking the big bankers and munitions manufacturers. This staff was largely responsible for the actual work of the committee and for the violence of its attacks on bankers and arms makers. Their publicity director kept a stream of so-called news flowing out to the press of this and other countries.

IN THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT it was evident that no one could withstand the isolationist cyclone. The mere hint of an investigation had met with wide acclaim. The President and I, of course, agreed to cooperate with the committee, especially since its original purpose, to investigate the traffic in arms, was laudable.

The committee, after spending the summer of 1934 in examining documents and amassing evidence, began its hearings on Sept. 4. Almost immediately our difficulties with other countries started too. The Buenos Aires government protested certain allegations from the committee concerning an Argentine admiral. The British Acting Foreign Secretary Vansittart sent a very sharp protest over rumored charges concerning King George V. The Mexican government protested references to President Rodriguez. Other Latin American governments objected to charges of bribery involving some of their high officials. The Chinese government presented an aide-memoire denying the testimony that a $10,000,000 wheat loan from us had been used to buy arms.

Consequently I went to see the Nye committee in person on Sept. 11 and spent over two hours with them. I pointed to the damage being done to our foreign relations as publicity was given to mere rumors involving the heads of high officials of other governments. Thereupon Senator Nye composed a letter to me in which he deeply regretted that a false impression might have been created by some of the statements introduced into the committee's records. I myself issued a statement that it was not in the mind of the committee or of any official of our government to give the slightest offense to any other government or its officials. I transmitted Nye's letter and my own statement to the ambassadors who had protested.

THE SITUATION WORSENED, however, when the Nye committee began referring publicly to state department documents, the publication of which had not been authorized. According to the universally accepted rules of diplomatic courtesy, a government receiving a communication from another government does not usually publish it until the other government formally approves its release. Through the Nye committee, therefore, we began getting into hot water with a number of other governments. I found it very difficult to curb the committee in this careless, exceedingly harmful publicity. I was kept busy explaining or apologizing much of the time to other governments with hurt feelings.

Our difficulties became still more acute, however, when the Nye committee, plunging into the background of the First World war, began to subpoena records of New York banks which had dealt with the Allies. The British and French ambassadors protested repeatedly.

I had already tried to enlist the support of the President in my effort to bring the Nye committee within reasonable limits. I handed him a memorandum on March 15 urging that he summon the Nye committee to a White House conference to advise the committee "to refrain from any unnecessary agitation in public hearings of questions which would handicap this government in its relations with other governments." The President did see the Nye committee four days later, but for some reason did not mention my request.

What I wanted the Nye committee members to understand was that Hitler had just thrown out the military clauses of the Versailles Treaty and Mussolini was completing his plans for the invasion of Ethiopia, and the spectacle of the bitter quarreling between Britain and France on the one side and the United States on the other over documents two decades old was certainly not one to deter Hitler and Mussolini from their designs. At that particular time Britain and France were trying to bring Germany into an armaments limitation agreement and dissuade Mussolini from his African aggression, and their efforts were certainly not being furthered by the wave of anti-British and anti-French feeling engendered by the Nye committee.

THE WORST EXAMPLE of carelessness by the Nye committee was still to occur. On Jan. 15, 1936, reference was made during the committee's public hearings to the contents of a confidential memorandum given by Arthur J. Balfour, British foreign secretary, to Secretary of State Lansing on May 18, 1917, which referred to Britain's secret agreements with other Allied governments. Nye asserted that both President Wilson and Secretary Lansing had falsified when they said they had no knowledge of British secret commitments prior to the Paris Peace Conference. This was a particularly aggravated breach, because we had asked the British government if they would permit publication of the memorandum, they had refused, and we had so informed Nye on Dec. 23, 1935. I vigorously protested to the Nye committee, which agreed to return all copies of the Balfour Memorandum to the state department.

On Jan. 20 I issued a press statement setting forth the state department's attitude toward the publication of confidential documents from its files. I said it was manifestly impossible for our government to "undertake to make public confidential communications without the permission of the government which reposed confidence in this government."

AT A PRESS CONFERENCE I said: "I served here in an official capacity during Wilson's administration and, needless to say, in common with the American public, I have the highest—I had and have always maintained—the highest regard for his patriotism and scrupulous honesty."

The Nye committee hearings furnished the isolationist springboard for the first Neutrality Act of our present epoch, and for this reason I have gone into them at length.

The fact was, I did not want neutrality legislation. And certainly I did not want the kind advocated by isolationists like Nye which would bind the Executive hand and foot and inform any prospective aggressors like Germany, Italy or Japan that they could declare war on their intended victim and we would then see to it that our citizens did not furnish arms to that victim.

I did not want to see legislation which, by telling the world in advance what we would not do in case of war, would prevent our exercising our influence to prevent war. Nor legislation which, if war came, would preclude our rendering the least assistance to the world organization, the League of Nations, in its efforts to bring the war to an end.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — The rights of man [illegible] we throw [illegible] what do they mean.

[illegible] their meaning President Truman [illegible] a message this week on civil rights.

In it he asked congress to pass laws protecting better the civil rights of a citizen.

The Constitution guarantees all of us certain rights: to vote, to a fair trial if we're accused of crime, to free speech, to free worship.

James Marlow

In his 4,000-word message Mr. Truman used the word "rights" 51 times, which is understandable since it was a message on rights.

But what rights does man really have? And how did they come to be listed in the Constitution as the law of the country?

The rights of man are an old idea. We've put it into practice and tried to protect it with the Constitution only after ages of blood and agony for mankind.

That's because it took man centuries to work out the idea clearly in his mind. He had to shake off tyranny to make it work.

Before the birth of Christ the stoic philosophers believed in the brotherhood of man and that every individual has liberty and responsibility.

Now we've reached the point where those who believed in democracy—they fall roughly into two groups—believe man has, or should have, certain rights.

BOTH GROUPS ARRIVE at the same conclusion, although differently, in this way.

The first group says men are born free and equal and have a right to remain that way.

The others say men were born without rights. But in order to survive and live together, whether it's a tribe or a nation, men must do this:

They must set up rules for living. Those rules—or rights—are to protect each man from unjust harm by any one else and to give him freedom.

But he can enjoy that freedom only so long as he doesn't use it to hurt any one else. If he does that he violates some one else's right.

So the view of the believers in democracy — both groups — comes down to this:

The individual is important, not the state. The state is created by individuals for the individual, not the individual for the state.

IN A TOTALITARIAN society the state is the important thing and any rights an individual thinks he has can be brushed aside to serve the state.

Here's the position of an individual in a totalitarian state from the "political doctrine of Fascism" by Alfredo Rocco. It was published in 1925 when Italian Fascism was just getting under way.

"For Fascism society is the end, individuals the means, and its whole life consists in using individuals as instruments for its social ends.

"Fascism faces squarely the problem of the rights of the state and of the duties of the individual. Individual rights are only recognized in so far as they are implied in the rights of the state."

But the rights of individuals in this country are not always protected but are often violated, as Mr. Truman pointed out.

Negroes have been lynched without a trial and kept from voting. And minorities, not only racial but religious, have been abused and persecuted.

THE ENCYCLOPEDIA BRITANNICA sums up what has happened to civil rights and liberties in this country:

"At various times and places minorities, many of which later became respectable, have been persecuted by Americans in ways which match the more wholesale horrors of the totalitarian terrors.

"Jews, Masons, Catholics, Mormons, Quakers, Abolitionists, Copperheads, Southerners, Carpetbaggers, Irish, Germans, Indians, Negroes, Chinese, Japanese, strikers, employers, union organizers, 'scabs,' syndicalists, anarchists, Communists, Fascists, pacifists, feminists, artists, teachers.

"Some of these in turn have violated each other's liberties."

OHIO TO PAY OVER 2 BILLION TO U.S.

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4—Ohio taxpayers would contribute $2,296,835,100 to the cost of supporting federal government in the coming year, under terms of the presidential budget recently submitted to congress, according to a statement issued Wednesday by the Ohio Chamber of Commerce.

This amount, on the average, represents for federal spending alone, $295.49 per person in Ohio and for a family of four in the state, represents an outlay of $1,181.96, Executive Vice President Herschel C. Atkinson said.

The national government, the Ohio Chamber officer explained, now requires for its support approximately three times the amount of taxes required to support state and local units of government.

21 Cents of Each $1.00

The Ohio Chamber's analysis further revealed that estimated federal expenditures for this year, on a national average, are equal to approximately 21 cents out of every dollar of the personal income of each person in the country.

It was also disclosed that proposed federal spending in the coming year is equal to more than 11 weeks of the average person's personal income, as compared with seven weeks in prewar 1941, six weeks in 1939, and two weeks in 1929.

In interpreting spending plans of the federal executive branch in terms of amounts that would come out of Ohio taxpayers' pocketbooks, Mr. Atkinson emphasized the need for public interest in the financial affairs of the national government.

The new budget for the 1948-1949 fiscal year, submitted by President Truman to congress in January he pointed out, calls for an increase in federal outlays of $1,941,000,000 over this year's expenditures.

Many New Projects

In the 1948-1949 budget proposals, are substantial amounts earmarked for new programs not yet authorized by legislation, according to the analysis.

Included are $4,000,000,000 for foreign aid under the Marshall plan, $400,000,000 to start universal military training; $290,000,000 for federal aid to schools, $40,000,000 for a new long-range housing program; and $115,000,000 for new federal public assistance and health insurance programs.

Ohio's estimated share of proposed federal expenditures, Mr. Atkinson explained, was computed on the following basis.

In 1946, Ohio residents received 5.79 per cent of the total income payments to individuals in the United States, according to the United States department of commerce.

Ohio's share, or $2,296,835,100, as computed, represents 5.79 per cent of $39,669,000,000 in total expenditures recommended for the federal government by President Truman.

She stated that although some items on local menus are higher in price than in other towns, as a whole, prices are lower here than elsewhere.

F. D. Maxwell, Marion county sanitarian, talked on the theme of "good food, good health, and good sanitation," and W. R. Aukland, district sanitarian, gave general remarks on the same subject. A representative of a Columbus accounting firm, Bassel Johnson, gave a short talk on food costs and on keeping of accurate records. Following the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. INTRODUCES BILL FOR VET PENSIONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Establishment of a uniform pension system under which all veterans 65 years of age would receive $90 a month would save money, Rep. Van Zant (R-Pa) has told the house.

Van Zandt, former national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has introduced such a bill.

In an explanation in today's congressional record he says this would extend to veterans of World War I and II the benefits provided for veterans of all of America's wars.

The pensions would be based on age and on injuries or infirmities that did not result from service in the armed forces. The bill would work this way:

A World War I veteran who reaches the age of 62 would be given a pension of $45.20 a month. At 65 he would be presumed to be permanently and totally disabled and would receive $90 a month. This is the amount Spanish-American war veterans receive at 65.

A sliding scale of payments would be provided for World War I veterans who have not reached 62 but who are partially disabled.

The same would apply to veterans of World War II when they qualify.

Appoint Fireman For Bucyrus Vacancy

By The United Press

BUCYRUS — Filling one of two vacancies existing in the city fire department staff, William Myers, drug clerk, was appointed a city fireman Tuesday by Safety Director John Caroll. Myers was one of two eligible for appointment having passed civil service examinations in the spring. He will take over the shift left vacant by the resignation last week of A. D. Neff.

Another applicant, Wayne Clem, who also passed the examinations in the spring declined appointment to remain at his job at the Ohio Locomotive Crane Co. A temporary special fireman is expected to fill the other vacancy which has existed since James E. Solze retired in August.

The ban is effective Feb. 12.

ATTLEE TO ASK FREEZE OF WAGES

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 4—Responsible government sources said Prime Minister Attlee intends to call upon Britain's workers and employers today to accept a voluntary freeze of wages and profits.

Such a step would be intended to help the nation out of its economic plight.

The informants said a decision to try to peg incomes temporarily was reached at a cabinet meeting yesterday. They said the prime minister would present the program on a voluntary basis.

It would, however, amount to the first wages-policy declaration since the labor government came to power in 1945.

Living costs have been climbing, particularly since the decision late last year to freeze government food subsidies at the present level.

Bucyrus Firemen Aid Ladies in Distress

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — For the second time within a week city firemen played the role of "second story men" to rescue ladies in distress. Both ladies made the mistake of leaving the night lock on when they stepped outside locking them from their homes.

The latest victim was Mrs. Jack Saffell whom firemen admitted after "jimmying" a second floor window, Tuesday. Firemen were asked to come to the rescue of Mrs. Noel Bogan under similar circumstances several days ago during sub-zero weather.

3 NORTHERN OHIO LOAN CO.'S ROBBED

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4 — Three northern Ohio loan companies were robbed within a three-hour period yesterday, and authorities believe the holdups in Cleveland and Akron were staged by the same pair of gunmen.

The first holdup occurred at the Commonwealth Loan Co's office in Cleveland. An estimated $300 to $500 was taken from a safe and cash drawer, after which the manager and four girl employes were herded into the basement.

Fifteen minutes later the robbers entered the nearby City Loan Co., raided the cash drawer and forced eight employes and two customers into the basement after taking their jewelry and wallets. Estimated value of the loot was $1,500.

Approximately two and a half hours later, two men held up four persons in the downtown Akron office of the Domestic Finance Co. and escaped with an estimated $1,800.

IT'S a very determined basketball team they have at LaRue . . . Beset by player injuries at the start of the season, they dropped two of their early starts, and then a scarlet fever epidemic halted all school activity, including basketball practice, just before and during the Christmas holidays . . . Regular starting forward, Burke Ballinger, broke an ankle before the season started, then got scarlet fever and was out until the middle of January . . . Stellar center Harold Brocklesby was sidelined in a crucial game with Pleasant . . . But the West Siders continued to drive and worked their way from seventh place in the league to a first division finish. They rounded out the season with a 53-33 win over Meeker last night that clinched them a fourth place in the league and a seeding in the county tournament.

FIVE GAMES yet remain on the county league schedule, all of them scheduled for Friday night and all of them will probably be close . . . Waldo goes to Morral and if they should shade the third-place aggregation, it would send them up to fourth place, and LaRue up to a third place tie with Morral . . . Caledonia travels to Prospect and win or lose, the Donians will still hang on to second place . . . Claridon entertains Meeker and the game could go either way . . . Kirkpatrick, with four wins and six losses, travels to Green Camp, who has a 1-9 record . . . Martel and New Bloomington, with one victory between them, will be involved in a struggle down in the league cellar. Martel will be trying to round out their season with at least one win.

SATURDAY MORNING, the drawings for the county league tournament will be held in the superintendent's office in the county court house . . . The first four teams in the league race—Pleasant, and probably Caledonia, Morral and LaRue — will be seeded in the tournament schedule, so that they won't have to face each other until the finals. Pleasant and the team ending in third place will meet the other teams of the top half of the league, and the second and fourth teams will meet the other half . . . Winner and runner up in the tournament, the consolation tourney winner, and Marion St. Mary will represent Marion county in the Class B district tournament in Westerville starting March 2.

AN ODDITY of the basketball games played by Marion teams last night is that three of them—the varsity and reserve squads of St. Mary and the Harding varsity—won their games with a score of 39 points. The Harding Reserves jumped the traces and won, 45-24, over Delaware. It was their ninth win in 11 starts.

Prexies Defeat Delaware, 39-34, Irish Beat Pleasant, 39-28

Harding Forces Rally To Take Willis Panthers in Last Minute

By BILL MURPHY

Harding High school's basketball team deserted the winless column last night at Delaware as they came from behind in the final quarter, defeating the Delaware Panthers, 39-34.

Merle Daum, formerly of the Reserve team, proved himself an asset to the Varsity by contributing 10 points to the team's total.

Dick Riddle was second high with nine tallies, followed by Jim Coss with seven.

Jack McKinnie, big six-foot-three center for the Panthers, led his team with 11 counters, while Harry Keebaugh was runner-up with nine.

Dick Leffler, also advanced from the Reserve team, figured in the Harding scoring as he flipped three fouls at a crucial point in the game, to bring the Prexies within striking distance of the Delaware Willis team, to tie them, and to go ahead.

Delaware Opens

As the game got under way, Jack McKinnie scored first for the Panthers. Jim Coss then got one from underneath the hoop for Harding, and Dick Riddle added another as the Presidents took a two-point lead. McKinnie retaliated with a one-hander for Delaware and followed it with a sucker, before Riddle connected with a set shot. Coss was successful on a charity throw, and Dave Coppock did the same for the Panthers, to tie the game at seven all.

McKinnie did it again, Keebaugh dropped two fouls, and Daum sank a pivot shot, as the quarter ended, Delaware, 11-9.

In the second period, Keebaugh and Coppock scored almost all the Panther's points while holding Harding to five. As half-time rolled around Coach Somerlot's cagers trailed 20-14.

Third quarter play was a little in Harding's favor, as they cut Delaware's lead by three points, the Presidents getting 11 and the Panthers eight.

In the frenzied final fourth frame with the locals trailing, 25 to 28, Jim Rea hit on a charity toss. Vern Gardner doubled it for Delaware, Daum added a point for Harding and McKinnie flipped a deuce for the Panthers. Thomas then hit on a long one from the side, as the Prexies drew to within two points, 31-29.

With three minutes to go, Leffler dropped a foul to move within one point of a tie. A half-minute later, he hit on another foul to tie the score, and with his third shot, put Harding ahead, 32-31.

Bill Sheff then took the lead for Delaware with a field goal, 33-32.

Daum Connects

With less than a minute to play, Daum put the Prexies ahead with a pivot shot, and Thomas got a glider, good for two points, and Daum hit again for deuce and an ace as the game ended, 39-34.

The Vice Presidents, in the curtain raiser, romped over the Panther Cubs, 45 to 24, with Bill Buckingham setting the pace with 11 tallies.

Friday night the Harding squad will be at home to entertain Galion's noopsters, in the first of three consecutive games to be played at Edison.

Rio Grande-Wilmington Coaches Battle Grabs Spotlight from OWU, Xavier Wins

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 4—Basketball Coaches Bob Stoneburner of Rio Grande and Harold Shelly of Wilmington are up to their ears in a feud.

Stoneburner's team beat Wilmington last night, 46-41, but he thought the officiating "stunk," and accused Shelly of hiring "home officials."

Shelly called Stoneburner a "backwoods coach" and remarked:

"If a coach has to complain about the outficiating he ought to quit."

By the time they got through it took much of the Ohio college spotlight from such items as:

1. Ohio Wesleyan's vault into Ohio conference leadership by a 50-46 defeat of Capital's defending champs and erstwhile pacesetters.

2. Xavier's 51-49 overtime triumpa over Bowling Green. The win, Xavier's 16th in 19 games and its 11th against no losses at home, marked the second straight night the Musketeers gained revenge for a defeat away from home. Ohio U. fell Monday.

3. Mount Union's third straight Ohio conference defeat of Kent State, 46-33. Kent hasn't lost to anybody else in league play.

Stoneburner told newsmen the Wilmington game was a "regular football contest." He said three of his players—high scoring Newt Oliver, Cliff Wilson and Dick Chandlee — were injured when trampled or thrown against the stands.

The Rio Grande coach said Wilmington mentor Harold Shelly told him before the game:

Scores on Free Throws

"I understand Oliver has been scoring so many free throws because you fellows use home-town referees, that's not going to happen tonight."

Shelly denied this. Officials George Hauck, described by Stoneburner as a Wilmington alumnus, and Jim McDonald, of Ohio State were not available for comment.

Oliver was held to nine points—his lowest total of the season. He is averaging 24 a game.

Wilmington travels to Rio Grande Tuesday for a return go. Stoneburner said the Quakers could bring their own officials "if they want to—we'll beat 'em anyway."

"We're going there to play basketball."

O.W.U. Takes Loop Lead

Wesleyan took the Ohio conference lead with a five win-one loss record. It was Capital's second loss in 10 games. The Bishops held Capital scoreless the first eight minutes. The defending champs, although able to tie several times, never had the lead.

With the score 44-all and four minutes to play, Wesleyan's Dick Travella scored on a fast break. Teammate Jack Smith notched a free throw. Everything after that was an anti-climatic.

Xavier's victory stands as a major upset despite the Musketeers fine record. The B-G's now have won 17 of 21. In the first half, the lead changed hands 10 times but Xavier wound up on top, 26-22. With 50 seconds remaining, Xavier held a 45-43 margin. Charles Share, B-G center, sent the game overtime with a tip-in. Dick Korb and Bob Alston forged a 51-47 Musketter lead in the extra period, before Mac Otten scored for B-G in the last seconds.

Kent broke into a 17-8 lead against Mount Union, but the invaders tied at 17-all, then won going away. Mount Union and Kent now have identical records, nine wins and five defeats.

Pint - Sized But Powerful, That's Rio's Newt Oliver

By The Associated Press

RIO GRANDE, O., Feb. 4—A pint-sized speed demon of the hardwood today claimed leadership of college basketball's foul line experts with 202 hits in 264 tries.

Newt Oliver, five-foot eight-inch forward at tiny Rio Grande college, also is aiming for total scoring honors. He now has 480 points in 20 games, an average of 24 a contest.

The Byersville, O., war veteran, whose rabbity capers literally have left the opposition inert, throws foul tries with unusual speed—and and shoots them one handed.

He holds the ball first in his left hand, eyeing the basket briefly, then moves the ball to eye level before transferring it to right hand. He appears to push it into the basket.

Coach Bob Stoneburner attributes Oliver's frequent fouls to a swift change of pace combined with some cagy ball tactics.

"He's tricky. He stops fast and starts fast," says Stoneburner. "This change of pace makes it pretty hard for a guard to avoid fouling him when he's shooting," the coach explains.

What's more, the 134-pound Oliver is no strictly home court star. Almost half his free tosses have been scored elsewhere.

While as few as four free throws have been made in games here, Newt bagged 23 a week ago in the season's biggest scoring spree. That was the night Wilberforce Church extended Rio Grande to three overtimes before Newt and his mates won, 118 to 116. Oliver had 59 points at the finish.

Two better free throwing records were turned in last year, but with 13 games to go they're rooting hard for Oliver at Rio Grande, where the 209 enrollment includes only 154 males.

St. Mary Earns Win No. 14 In Exciting Battle of Defenses

By BILL DIEM

It was a battle of defenses in the jam-packed Edison Junior High school gym last night, and the tighter defense of the St. Mary Irish won out, 39-28, over invading Pleasant Township.

A more aggressive, scrappier basketball game has not been played on the Edison court this season.

Irish guard Bob Stuber hung onto high-scoring Pleasant forward Charles Mayers like a leech and held him to six points, his lowest point total of the season. He had been averaging around 20 points a game.

And Pleasant guard Dick Green held Irish forward Dick Schuler to 10 points, when Schuler had been sinking them in at an 18-per-game clip.

Baldauf Nets 13

The evening's high scorer was St. Mary forward John Baldauf, who counted 13 and sparked a third-quarter rally that pulled the Irish ahead, 27-21, after they went into the last half trailing, 17-16.

Both teams employed the pressing man-to-man defense. At the halftime intermission, officials Grover Oxley and Larry Archer, both of Ohio Northern, said they hadn't seen much better ball handling than Pleasant displayed, nor a better game of defense than the Irish played. "Wouldn't a game like this one look good on a big court?" said Archer.

The lead changed or was knotted up five times in the first half, but after Bob Stuber opened the third quarter with a two-pointer, the Irish stayed ahead all the way out. Pleasant counted but four points in that quarter on baskets by Mayers and Randy Dickason, high-point man for Pleasant with 12. Baldauf sent in seven points and Stuber another field goal to give the Irish their 11 points.

Pleasant Rallies

Pleasant pulled to within four points by the automatic time out in the final stanza, center Jack Merchant netting three points and Mayers and Dickason two each to press St. Mary, 32-28, but their attack stalled thereafter and the Irish widened the gap to win going away. St. Mary center Dick Drake swished two field goals, the first on a long, impossible pivot shot, and John Baldauf dropped in another in 1-2-3 order after the time-out to ice the game. Dick Schuler closed out the scoring with a charity toss.

Only 11 men were used in the close, exciting game — the odd man being Irish substitute center Bill Moloney, who came in after Dick Drake had taken a nasty bump when sitting down too hard. Drake went back in a few minutes later.

The reserve game started the fans screaming and set the night's mood in another close fray. The Irish Reserves won (their fifteenth), 39-30, on the strength of a 17-point second-quarter rally sparked by Bill Merchant who sent in five field goals in a row before missing. His game total hit 20.

Jim Cusick counted eight for the Irish, and Pleasantmen Jim Merchant, Bob Dunbar, Merle Vance and Granville Martin all netted six or more.

Both Pleasant and St. Mary are idle until next Tuesday. Pleasant goes to Richwood then and St. Mary to Sunbury.

Orth Gets Return Match, Nothing Barred

Marion wrestling fans are in for another great evening of wrestling next Thursday at the Armory. Promotor Fishbaugh has tried to book a card like the one last Thursday that the fans said was the best one seen here in years. It will be another double main event program with both matches going over the ninety minute route. The one will be a return match between Paul Orth and Len (Cowboy) Hughes. Paul wants nothing barred in this match but the wrestlers will make their rules at the start of the match and the first one to break those rules, the referee will let the other man do the same thing. There will be no disqualifications.

The other main event should be on a par with the swell match last week between LaBell and Popenheim (this was Marion's first ninety minute draw) this week. Popenheim, his first name is Jack, will meet Bill Murray, the tall Canadian who starred in two battle royals here and made a lot of friends with his fast type of grappling. A prelim will start this all star program at 8:30. Call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store early for your best ringside seats. No advance in prices.—Adv.

TO FILL GALION DIRECTOR POST

Mayor Scheduled To Name Safety-Service Choice Thursday.

Special to The Star

GALION, Feb. 4—Appointment of a safety-service director will be made Thursday, Mayor H. H. Hartmann announced today following action by city council last night fixing the saalry for that post and authorizing hiring of a consulting engineer for the city light and power plant.

The new safety-service director will also be his consulting engineer, Mayor Hartmann said.

Council set salary for the director at $250 per month. K. A. Poister, safety-service director for the previous administration, drew $310 per month and in addition served as engineer.

The ordinance to authorize hiring of a consulting engineer for the light and power plant provides $25 per day, plus expenses, and appropriates the sum of $2,500 to be used for this purpose for the balance of the year. This also was passed as an emergency ordinance.

Plan for Parking Meters

Initial step to secure parking meters for the city was taken by council in requesting city solicitor to draw up necessary legislation for installation of meters. A survey of traffic in the city will be made first and will show where meters are necessary and how many are needed, councilmen were told.

No further action was taken on Galion's power problem. M. G. Thompson, chairman of public utilities committee, reported his committee was still taking the measure under consideration which was presented at a previous meeting.

Council also passed an emergency ordinance authorizing the director of public service to purchase repair parts for the ash handling system at the light plant, and appropriated $1,750 for this purpose.

Following a report that not all fire boxes in the city are working, notice was made to require testing of fire alarm boxes four times a year.

ARREST MARION MAN ON PARKING CHARGE

By Brush-Moore News Service

CANTON, Feb. 4—A motorist who questioned the right of police to tow his car from the street for an accumulation of parking tickets, was placed under formal arrest Tuesday afternoon on a charge of violating the city parking meter ordinance after he had paid for the ticket under protest.

He was Maurice H. Flowers, 41, of Marion, whose car was towed from a parking stall, after it had been found parked overtime there. A ticket was placed on the car making a total of five charged against it.

Police said Flowers called headquarters and told officers his car had been stolen but was informed it had been impounded.

Until Tuesday, the car had three parking tickets and, as is the custom it was placed on the police tow list. Early that morning, the car was ticketed on Tuscarawas Street W for a parking violation. At noon, it was found in violation of Cleveland avenue with the former ticket still attached to the windshield. Police waited until 1:30 p. m. before ordering a tow truck.

The case has been set for traffic court on Friday.

LEGAL NOTICE

In the matter of the Joint County Ditch Improvement No. 290, petitioned for by Nellie Martin, et al.

To each person signing or named in the petition and to each other person affected by said Improvement.

You and each of you are hereby notified that on the 22nd day of January, 1948, the above named petitioner filed a petition with the Auditor of Marion County, Ohio, for the improvement of the Carroll Joint County Ditch by constructing, reconstructing, deepening, widening, boxing and repairing tile drains of part of the Carroll Joint County Ditch and the branches hereinafter described that empty into the Carroll Joint County Ditch. The construction of the improvement is necessary and will be conducive to the public welfare. The following is the course and termini of said proposed improvement, to-wit:

Commencing in the Carroll Joint County Ditch in the east half of the northwest quarter of Section 17, Salt Rock Township where the branches No. 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 empty into said main ditch; thence down stream in the channel of the open part of said Joint County ditch to the west section line of Section 18 in Salt Rock Township or far enough down said open ditch to give a good and sufficient outlet for all of the tile drains that empty into said open ditch; thence commencing where said branches No. 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 empty into said open ditch in the east half of the northwest quarter of said Section 17 and following said branches in an easterly direction and improve the same by cleaning out all of said tile drains, repairing all broken tile by replacing the same with new tile and reconstructing any of said branches where necessary to give a good and sufficient outlet for the lands drained or sought to be drained by any of said branches.

It is claimed that the improvement will affect property owned by you.

You are therefore notified that the Joint Board of Commissioners of Marion and Wyandot Counties have fixed the 13th day of February, 1948, at 10 o'clock A. M. at the upper terminus of the improvement for the view thereon, and have fixed the 13th day of February, 1948, at 10 o'clock A. Homemakers Chorus Holds Meeting at Y

The first practice meeting of the Homemakers chorus was held Monday afternoon at the Y.M.C.A. with a good attendance. Mrs. Carl Bailey of Martel is the director and Mrs. Elma Downs also of Martel the accompanist. Any Marion county Homemaker interested in joining the group may do so at the next meeting it is announced. While the chorus is working towards the Achievement Day program the organization will become a permanent one if the women desire. The chorus was organized under the direction of Miss Mary Faye McMillen, county home demonstration agent.
